"A Cruyff isn't a touch, a Cruyff is a Cruyff" - Coach Knight on touch limits

What a week it has been for your Jackets! (I would like to start this blog out by saying that I will not be providing commentary on our many games over this season. If you have navigated through the back woods of the internet enough to stumble across this blog, you probably already watch/stream our games.) I boarded the bus, bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, to be met by an ensemble of Jackets singing "Sweet Caroline" as you would imagine a group of non-musical guys would sound. The bus was filled with energy and enthusiasm to start our season which was quickly drained when Coach "Birthday Boy" Zaz couldn't figure out how to operate a DVD player. He says that it is the disc, but a classic like "Remember the Titans" doesn't just stop working mysteriously. Needless to say, I am not convinced.

The bus ride was silent on the way to Louisville until we arrived at Fazoli's for our pregame meal. I heard like six people in a row order the twice-baked lasagna, so if you haven't been there in a while, that is what the Jackets recommend. We finished the meal and then began the process of preparing for the game, which was delayed over an hour by lightning. Unfortunately I did see this bolt when we were initially walking out to warm-up, but most of the time we are sent inside for mysterious bolts that are somehow caught by Kurt "You Can't Play Today" Gruenburg, our trainer. During the delay some of the guys decided to participate in the bin challenge. Officially, it was short work as about 15 or so guys headed the ball down the line into the bucket on the first try - or at least there is no evidence to prove otherwise. Check out our snapchat to see the video. Eventually, we played the game and had our hearts broken. That all there is to say on that.

The next day, Louisville was met with the effects of hurricane Harvey so the torrential down pour forced us to be inside all day. The team had a recovery session in the hotel pool that day which consisted of Zaz seemingly making up the workout as we went. After a quick bite to eat at the beloved "Noodles and Co." we proceeded to our afternoon activity of Breakout Louisville. For those of you who don't know how this works, a group of people are locked in a room with a series of clues on how to open locks which eventually lead to you finding the way or pass code out of the room, and you have an hour to breakout. Going in, we knew that the engineers would be a strong contributor to whichever groups they were assigned. Joel "We have a Joel?" Fullmer was also expected to be a powerhouse considering he worked at one of these places over the summer. Much to our surprise (just kidding) Coach Faro had the team already divided into groups based on position, squeezing every possible drop of structured positional bonding possible. I was placed with the other center midfielders. The other groups were the coaches, defenders, goalies & strikers (yea I was curious about that one too), and what I like to call the misfits - those players who are more attacking orientated but don't conform to any one role. Unsurprisingly, my group broke out of the kidnapping room with almost seven minutes to spare. John "Not Stone Cold Anymore" Schwein organized our room so well that a professional organizer might cry and the rest chipped in where they could. Every group escaped except but one. You guessed it, the misfits failed to break out. I was told that Derek "The Flop" Braak turned out to be the rock that sunk his team despite Josh "The Greater" Brown putting the team on his back. Their excuse was that "the casino room was the hardest room". Yea, sure.

We then went to dinner at Tuby Tuesday's where your Jackets got a generous spending limit (thank you coach!) Seeing everybody use their full spending allotment is always a funny sight, especially when the four guys at the end of the table have two of the most expensive appetizers. Alex "The Schemer" Narog was without a doubt the brains behind this operation that I am sure used every last penny they were allotted.

The next day we awoke and hung out around the hotel until it was time to leave for the game. The rain had finally subsided and the weather was very pleasant around kickoff. We had another unfortunate result versus UIndy but there was much good to be taken from the game. After this we showered, grabbed our boxed lunches, and began the journey back to Cedarville. We celebrated Zaz's birthday with cupcakes that he immediately compared to his heritage while also turning your teeth blue. The mood was pleasant though tired on the trip back and at one point I took out my headphones to hear Mason "Long Hair Don't Care" Hecklinger leading the back of the bus in a beautiful rendition of "Silent Night" in September. Soccerpella, our team acapella group, will bring you a studio album soon with a couple epic remakes and beautiful originals that may make you cry. Take that as you will. Anyway, if there are shenanigans on the bus, you can count on Mason to be orchestrating them. We arrived back to campus safely on Saturday in time for a lot of your Jackets to go out and support the women's team start their season with another big win.

Big shout out to Coach Mac for being the best bus driver. Not only have I seen him wield the bus through a tornado, but I swear that man can park the 45-foot bus in a 30-foot space. While turning around in a parking lot, he came within inches of scraping a parked car. With the whole team screaming to stop, Coach Mac continued with absolute certainty in his skills - performing a flawless 3 point turn. The man is a legend.

Come out this Wednesday to watch our G-MAC and home opener versus Ohio Valley, a rematch of the semifinal match last year!!

"We Back the Jackets!"

Tonight's Game

The Cedarville University men's soccer team hosts the Ohio Valley University Fighting Scots in a Great Midwest Athletic Conference (G-MAC) tangle tonight at Yellow Jacket Field. It is the 2017 home opener for the Yellow Jackets.

Cedarville, picked to finish third (93 pts) in the 2017 G-MAC Preseason Coaches Poll, are currently 0-2 overall - losing a 2-1 double-overtime contest to Bellarmine last Thursday and dropping a 2-0 decision to Indianapolis last Saturday. Both games were played at Bellarmine University in Louisville, Kentucky.

The Fighting Scots, selected to finish fourth (89 pts) in the Coaches Pre-Season Poll, are 1-0-1 in the early going of the 2017 campaign. OVU defeated Illinois-Springfield 2-0 last Thursday in Vienna, West Virginia before battling preseason pick #1 Alderson Broaddus to a 0-0 tie in Philippi, West Virginia last Saturday. OVU is ranked #9 in the latest United Soccer Coaches DII Midwest Region Poll.

The Yellow Jackets, under the direction of fifth-year Head Coach Brett Faro (54-21-11), returns three of the top four scorers from last year's squad that finished 12-8-3 (7-3-2).

Junior forwards Bryce Childers (7g/3a/17 points) and Derek Braak (5g/2a/12 points) will look to lead the offense again. Senior midfielder John Schwien (2g/5a/9 points) was an all-conference first team selection in 2016.

Ohio Valley is led by Head Coach Luis Rincon who is in his third year with the men's program (21-15-3). He is in his first season coaching the Fighting Scots women's team.

The Scots produced seven all-league performers and three members of the all-freshman team in 2016. Sophomore Nicolas Rodriguez and freshman Nemanja Acimovic have each scored a goal in 2017. Senior keeper Carlos Rubio has made just six saves while posting two shutouts.

Cedarville leads the all-time series with the Fighting Scots by a 7-1-1 margin including 33-3 in goals scored. The teams last met in the 2016 G-MAC Tournament Semifinals in Elkins, West Virginia - a 2-1 Yellow Jacket victory.
